

About the Group

Lancashire Occupational Health and Safety Group was established in 1930. The group membership consists of organisations of all sizes across the county and its constitution covers all aspects of occupational health and safety, accident prevention and the environment.

Group Meetings

The Group Executive Committee sets out an exciting and informative programme for the membership. Most meetings feature an expert guest speaker who will have been specially invited to share their own area of expertise with the membership.

Here to Help

With practitioners from many different areas of health and safety, LOHSG members are never short of someone to turn to for advice. The membership is made up of all types of organisations and industries and the group meetings are relaxed and informative so that everyone benefits.

More Information

Simply come along to a meeting or for more information contact a member of the Group Executive Committee (see back of this programme for details). The groups website features minutes of past meetings and other important information and is continually updated to reflect current development and trends.
